Cannabis: Breast Cancer Treatment Advancements

Jean Criss As a new luxe Intimate Apparel Designer, Author and Writer, I aspire my readers with informative and trending, innovative solutions in the world of Breast Cancer. The CRISSCROSS Intimates Collection was designed to make Women and Men have a positive experience throughout their recovery, no matter what stage or phase of breast surgery they need - Feel Confident and Look Beautiful or Handsome. I blog about brands, bras and advancements in breast health and wellness and clinical research crisscrossintimates.com/blog. Today, we discuss the use of medical Cannabis and Breast Cancer, a highly controversial topic. Learn more about my colorful Survivor story in part one of the Trilogy: My Pain Woke Me Up: BLISS! On Sale: <https://crisscrossintimates.com/inspiration>

My norm throughout recovery was far from typical for most Survivors. Nonetheless, I put my pedal to the metal and documented my journey with perseverance. I kept my mind, body and soul busy starting from my hospital bed and continued as a working, single mother of two. I pushed and pay it forward with the new colorful CRISSCROSS Intimate Apparel Collection made for Survivors by a Survivor in NYC. I'm called the 'Magnet Chic' using magnet closures on The Nina Bra. All styles have a criss-cross wrap for improved Bra fit and offer revolutionary survivor benefits. CRISSCROSS™ is dedicated to my belated first husband who died tragically from an auto accident at the crossroads of our youthful lives. What I've learned as a Survivor from Widowhood, Breast Cancer to Sexual Assault, joining the 'Me Too' movement, is that I found my voice and creativity thru the years. This Fall CRISSCROSS Intimates hits Hollywood's Red Carpet where the Cannazine will be distributed!

Olivia Newton-John, two-time Breast Cancer Survivor & Grammy-award winner, learned to combine chemotherapy with natural therapies. At her Cancer Wellness & Research Center she helps patients during recovery and attributes hers in part to medical Cannabis. "People have this vision from the '60s of people just sitting around and getting stoned. It's not about that. This plant is a healing plant. We need to change the vision of what it is because it not only helped me greatly with pain and inflammation," she proclaims. Whether the use of Cannabis is for cancer treatment or pain management, there are a lot of medicinal benefits with Cannabis. It's become a social justice issue too. Follow what's happening in your backyard - Cynthia Nixon Puts Legalizing Marijuana Front and Center; John Boehner's Marijuana Reversal' NY Leaders Reach Deal; most recently, the FDA announced first drug derived from marijuana to treat rare, severe forms of epilepsy. More than 60-peer reviewed studies were conducted between 1990 and 2014 for conditions from Breast Cancer to Parkinson's disease. Advancements for treating a wide range of debilitating conditions have arrived. There are various types of ingestible Cannabis and oils to treat metastatic Breast Cancer. Aside from Cannabis killing cancer, CBD (Cannabidiol) is known to act as an antioxidant, neuroprotectant and a powerful anti-inflammatory. Timing is everything. Knowing when to administer CBD before γ -radiation treatment matters greatly in the ability to kill cancer cells. Medical research continues to explore the use of Cannabis for further treatments with many diseases.
